ARRIVES AFTER SECRET DASH ACROSS OCEAN

London Orders Huge Ship to America as Protection Against Bombs.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 7—With the "red duster" Union Jack proudly flying at her mast, Britain's new $28,750,000 liner Queen Elizabeth—the largest, fastest ship afloat—arrived within the safety of New York harbor waters today at the end of her bold dash 3,000 miles across the Atlantic.

Painted a drab gray, the 83,000-ton liner passed Ambrose lightship shortly after 9 a. m. and headed toward the narrows, past winter-deserted Coney Island, with the skyline of New York 20 miles distant.

A war-time fugitive, fleeing the dangers of German bombing assaults in her Clyde river berth in Scotland, the Queen Elizabeth successfully evaded the threat of German undersea attack and triumphed in its risk of a mortal blow against British claims of supremacy of the sea.

Near Top Speed

Planes flying out of New York first sighted the Queen "looking like a dirty gray whale" off Fire Island, cutting up a mile-long wake as her giant engines turned up apparently close to her top speed of more than 33 knots.

Only a few figures were seen on the decks, and from the planes there was no indication that the world's largest ship even had a name painted on her gray-smudged prows.

Not until a TWA plane made a second circle over the Queen Elizabeth did the ship even make her nationality known. On the second circle, crew members broke out the Union Jack and some of the crew waved.

She missed the morning slack tide and most likely will drop anchor near the old quarantine station, Staten Island, before proceeding up the bay late this afternoon to her pier at 50th street.

Takes Direct Course

Black smoke belched from the Queen Elizabeth's two slanted funnels as she suddenly straightened out from her previous zigzag course and cut a direct line for New York harbor—apparently sure, now, that she was in safe waters.

Below the water line, the ship showed dark red and along the water line there were patches of black under the gray paint, indicating her "war paint" had been hastily applied for the audacious voyage to this country.

Poor visibility that hampered the observations of passengers in the welcoming planes improved as the Queen Elizabeth neared the harbor, and brilliant sunshine poured through the broken clouds, speckling the waters and churning wake with gold and silver.

It was estimated, at that time, that the ship was making approximately 28 knots.

Meanwhile, preparations were made to greet the Queen Elizabeth at her new berth at pier 90, at the foot of West 50th street, where two dredges have recently been deepening the north side of the slip for her huge bulk.

Rests With Others

The newcomer will lie in a $113,750,000 maritime "klondike" on the New York waterfront, alongside the $60,000,000 French liner Normandie and the Queen Elizabeth's sister ship, the $25,000,000 Queen Mary.

A police detail of 250 men was stationed in the pier vicinity, and not even newsmen or photographers were allowed to enter the piershed. In completing her strange maiden voyage, the Queen Elizabeth wrote a new chapter in war-time drama.

For the voyage of this largest potential target for an enemy warship was:

1. Made without an alarm, and
2. Not disclosed until late yesterday.

"Thousands of Clydeside people knew the Elizabeth had left her berth nine days ago," exulted the authoritative British press association in London, "and the Scottish and national press of Great Britain knew it. Yet the secret was kept."

The secret was kept until the new queen of the seas, christened months ago by the reigning British queen in her own name, was safely within the American neutrality zone.

Welles reiterated to newspapermen merely that the had "no proposals to make and no commitments to offer" for the United States government.

Receiving the American, British and French press corps in a body, the United States undersecretary warned that he had adopted a Lausanne newspaper's description of him, "mute as a carp."

He repeated assurances given in other capitals that nothing one party tells him during his trip will be referred to "directly or indirectly" in the talks with other parties.

No Comparisons

Answering a question, he said he intended to draw no comparisons for publication on effects of the war in various countries he visits and that he will make no visit to the war zone in France.

Daladier will entertain him at dinner later with only a few others present.

Welles said he would fly to London Sunday and be in Paris for a few hours again next week en route to Rome, where he will spend two more days before sailing for the United States March 16.

The President's investigator had spent the night traveling from Lausanne, Switzerland, in a special car on the Simplon-Orient express, accompanied by Joseph P. Kennedy, United States ambassador to Great Britain.

Kennedy planned to continue to London during the day.

Clear Nazi Picture

Welles is believed to have brought from Berlin a clear picture of Adolf Hitler's price for peace and of German determination to fight to the finish to attain the fuehrer's aims.

Hitler is reputed to have told Welles last Saturday that Germany would fight until she had, primarily, unchallenged political influence over Bohemia-Moravia, Slovakia, Poland and Hungary, return of her colonies and release from what Germans called British "stranglehold" control of the seas.

During his three-day stay here he was expected to find French opinion equally as unyielding and fixed on one idea: beat Germany first.

Welles' interview with Daladier will be third with the "big three" of Europe's leaders. He began his swing through the chief European capitals with a meeting in Rome with Italian Premier Mussolini, traveled from there to Berlin to see Hitler, and came ... a respite in Switzerland.

During his visit here, it has been announced, he will confer with officials of the Polish government in exile.

Welles has refused so far to ... publicly either his questions to leaders in Rome and Berlin or their answers, holding that the information was for the President's ears only, and there was no indication that his Paris conferences would be exceptions to the secrecy rule.

NLRB CHANGES URGED IN HOUSE

Special Committee Recommends 17 Amendments to Wagner Act.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 7 — Prompt creation of a new three-man labor board to act "merely as a judge" in collective bargaining disputes topped a list of 17 amendments to the Wagner act recommended to congress today by a special house committee.

Freedom also for an employer "to discuss labor situations with his workers" within limitations was included in the changes proposed by Chairman Smith (D-Va) of an investigating committee. The committee majority advocated that the present board, headed by J. Warren Madden, be tossed out of office at this session.

Smith said his amendments represented "imperative things that need immediate attention." Aligned with him were Representatives Halleck (R-Ind) and Routzohn (R-Ohio.)

The minority, Representatives Healey (D-Mass) and Murdock (D-Utah), protested against the amendments as "emasculatory" and threatening to "the principles, purposes and objectives of the act."

Healey and Murdock said the changes "propose to sacrifice vital rights of labor."

In proposing to separate judicial and prosecuting functions, the majority suggested that an administrator, to be appointed by the President and to have no connection with the board, should prosecute complaints against employers.

This amendment apparently was based on charges that in some cases the board had acted as judge, jury and prosecutor.

One amendment would forbid the payroll reinstatement of any employe who had engaged in wilful violence during a labor disturbance.

The suggested changes, Smith said, are not intended to affect the fundamental principle of collective bargaining in the Wagner act but, he said, would define the work of the new administrative body more clearly and eliminate cause of some of the dissatisfaction expressed about the present board.

Drunken Driving Arrests Hitting High Mark Here

26 Since Jan. 1, Compared with Only 5 in Same Period Last Year; Upswing Started 6 Months Ago.

A sharp upswing in the number of drunken driving arrests here in recent weeks has set a record which officials described today as "a new high in carelessness and thoughtlessness."

Since Jan. 1, twenty-six motorists have been arrested by city police and state patrolmen in Marion city and county on drunken driving charges. There were only five during the corresponding 10-week-period at the beginning of last year.

Thirteen arrests during February set a new high for any one month on record here and contrasted sharply to two arrests made during February, 1939.

Keeps Court Busy

So numerous have drunken driving arrests become, in fact, that a major part of the municipal court's work since Jan. 1 has been handling this group of cases—holding arraignments, hearings and jury trials and preparing the several routine records that must be filed in each case.

One of the most unusual characteristics of the "epidemic," as police term it, is the frequency of arrests on several occasions. For example, four motorists were arraigned on drunken driving charges within a five-hour period a couple of weeks ago while two or three arrests during a single night has become a weekly occurence.

Started in Fall

But the wave of these arrests, while gaining momentum during the last few weeks, really started six months ago, about the second week in September.

Court records show that during this six-month period, 67 motorists have been arrested on driving-while-intoxicated charges as compared to 26 for the corresponding six-month period a year ago. These 67 arrests is higher than for any entire year prior to 1939. And if the present rate continues, officials point out, the figure for 1940 will be greatly higher than the record 85 arrests for 1939.

The extent of the upswing is shown in the following comparisons for the last six months: last three weeks in September, 11 arrests in 1939, 4 in 1938; October, 12 in 1939, 3 in 1938; November, 9 in 1939 and the same number in 1938; December, 9 in 1939 and 5 in 1938; January, 9 in 1940 and 3 in 1939; February, 13 in 1940 and 2 in 1939; first six days of March, 4 for 1940 and none for 1939.

Dangerous Mixture

While there are undoubtedly several reasons for the increasing number of arrests, police and state patrolmen believe the principal factor is a rapidly increasing carelessness on the part of Marion motorists.

"It's just the old, old story of too many motorists not knowing that alcohol and gasoline don't mix or failing to realize that even though they've had only 'a few' drinks they are unfit to drive," one officer commented.

Another officer expressed the opinion that drinking in general must be increasing since drunken driving arrests are increasing during the very months when traffic is the lightest.

A large majority of these arrests, they point out, have been made during the early Sunday morning hours between midnight and 3 a. m., the hours when bars are closing and private Saturday night parties are breaking up.

Speedier Communication

Another factor which undoubtedly has played a prominent part in the number of arrests in the city, police point out, is the fact that reports of drunken drivers received at the police station can be immediately relayed to cruisers over the department's shortwave radio system installed last summer. Previously, telephone complaints resulted in very few arrests on traffic charges because of the time required to get instructions to the cruisers.

Police and state patrolmen deny that they are making any special drive at the present time against drunken driving. Members of both departments firmly believe that driving while intoxicated represents the greatest traffic hazard possible and they have issued warnings repeatedly that they are always on the lookout for zigzagging cars.

Three of the 26 cases since Jan. 1 are still pending in municipal court but the other 23 have either pleaded guilty or have been found guilty by the court, records show. There have been no acquittals and no cases have been dismissed. All of those sentenced in this group have been fined $100 and costs and have had their driving rights suspended for periods of either six months or a year.

MOVE TO CRIPPLE HATCH BILL BEATEN

Foes of Measure To Renew Efforts Today.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 7—Although beaten in a crucial test move, senate opponents of legislation broadening the Hatch "anti-politics" law were making a last-stab effort to kill it today.

They failed narrowly late yesterday to put across a proposal by Senator Miller (D-Ark.) which would have wiped out some existing restrictions against "voluntary" political activity by federal employes.

Democratic ranks were split by the 44-41 vote, even after senate Leader Barkley (D-Ky.) argued that an affirmative vote would hurt his party's chances in the November election.

Barkley said the tally clearly indicated approval today for the legislation by Senator Hatch (D-N. M.) extending the ban on political activity to about 250,000 state workers paid in part by federal funds.

The opponents, headed by Senators Minton (D-Ind.) and Lucas (D-Ill.), decided to ask first that the Hatch legislation be returned to the elections committee "for further study." If carried, the motion would kill the proposal for this session.

"There is a pretty general feeling that this bill was hastily considered and poorly drafted," Minton declared. "It has a lot of extremely bad features."

LOCAL WPA CONTROL FAVORED BY TAFT

Senator Outlines New Proposal for Work Relief.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 7 — Senator Robert A. Taft (R-O), aspirant for the presidential nomination, believes local communities should administer work relief, with the help of federal funds.

In a radio address last night on "government help," the senator declared "real danger of starvation threatens so many millions" and that relief must be provided for the unemployed. He added:

"I think it is greatly aggravated by the economic planning, price fixing and regulatory and spending policies of the federal government....The federal government has never been willing to give up the political power and federal prestige resulting from a federal work program."

Discussing the system of state aid for relief, old age pensions, housing and medical care, Taft warned "the administration of all these experiments is so loose and inadequate and unplanned that the whole system is in serious danger of breaking down and dragging the country down with it."

He criticized WPA as "both expensive and inadequate," adding that "it provides a federal work program, which encourages men to stay on relief."

LOS ANGELES, March 7 — Betsey Cushing Roosevelt today was granted a divorce from James Roosevelt, son of the President.

The interlocutory decree was granted by Superior Judge Thomas C. Gould. He said he had examined the terms of a property settlement, found them satisfactory and the settlement would be included as part of the decree.

BOLD MALE ASPIRES TO BE QUEEN OF MAY

By The Associated Press

HOUSTON, Tex., March 7—A bold young male is campaigning against eleven co-eds for queen of the May at Rice Institute because he is "fed up" with women invading fields once open only to men.

J. P. (Just call me Petunia) Miller was nominated in a petition presented to the Rice women's council.

"I'm getting fed up with women invading all branches of business and competing with men," Petunia said in his opening campaign statement. "So I'm going to get even."

The election is Monday.

FINLAND CALLS YOUTHS OF 19

Older Men, Once Rejected Because of Health, Ordered To Bear Arms.

By The Associated Press

HELSINKI, March 7—The Finnish government today called up the military class of 1920—mostly youths of 19—and all men of other classes scheduled for reexamination this year or in succeeding years.

Most of the second group previously had been rejected for reasons of health.

The new call to the colors came while the vanguard of the Russian besiegers of Viipuri still were in virtually the same positions they occupied almost a week ago outside the key Karelian isthmus city.

Soviet Russian troops seeking to drive across the ice of the bay of Viipuri to lighten a ring of steel on the seaport of Viipuri suffered heavy losses under the fire of the Finns, the Finnish high command reported today.

More than 30 Russian tanks were destroyed on the ice, the high command said in a communique which stated that the second invaders "attacked fiercely" all day yesterday on the northwest of the bay.

"The battle for possession of capes at the mouth of the bay and islands off its northwestern shore continues," it said.

Elsewhere on the strategic Karelian isthmus front attacks were repulsed, the army reported, but on the eastern front, it acknowledged a Russian success in the seizure of "a few islands" a short distance off shore of the northeastern part of Lake Ladoga.

Troops on land, the Finnish air force, the navy and coastal defenses all were used in actions against the Russians attempting to cross the ice not only in the bay of Viipuri but to the west in the gulf of Finland.

Military observers expressed belief that the final Red army assault on the depopulated and devastated city was being delayed by failures of Soviet attacks on Finnish lines east and southeast of Viipuri.

Unless the Russians can break through these lines and flank the defenders, these sources said, invading troops entering the city would be in a pocket with Finns on the east, west and north.

This was believed to account for the heavy Russian attacks across the ice of Viipuri bay and against Finnish positions defending approaches from the east.

King Carol Pledges All Resources in Defense of Rumanian Borders

Monarch Opens Parliament with Declaration of Supreme Effort To Maintain Independence.

By The Associated Press

BUCHAREST, March 7—King Carol II opened parliament today with a declaration that all the resources of Rumania would be thrown behind her army as a "supreme guarantee of our independence and of the integrity of our borders."

Disclosing that taxes would be materially increased to bear the cost of keeping 1,600,000 men under arms, the monarch said:

"I am sure my people will accept such sacrifices for the sake of the country and peace."

Strong neutrality, he declared, will be continued even in the fields of foreign commerce "in order to assure the essential flow of supplies to our army and our people."

Struggle Grows Sharper

Carol's statement was approved in a long session of the crown council last night amid signs of an even sharper struggle between Germany and the British-French allies for Rumania's favor in exports of raw materials.

The monarch told parliament that the government is assured of the stability and continuity necessary to execute a long-range program "which will include intensification of production in all lines."

In a declaration that relations between Rumania and other nations are good, the king specifically mentioned only Italy and Bulgaria.

Meanwhile, Viteel Tilea, Rumanian minister to London, was reported on his way home to deliver a British proposal that Great Britain be accorded equal treatment with Germany on Rumanian exports, including oil, the most coveted product.

On the other hand, it was reported that German pressure on Rumania now included a demand for the country's entire 1940 wool crop.

The native yarn industry would be ruined if such a demand were fulfilled, economic experts said, and if Great Britain and Germany were to share alike in Rumanian oil only 800,000 tons of the 1940 maximum production, estimated at 4,000,000 tons, would remain for other disposition.

This remainder would not suffice to maintain Rumanian trade with the Balkans, Italy and other countries — trade in which Rumania receives other products in exchange for her oil—aside from supplying Rumania's own military needs.

The economic tug-of-war over Rumania's products was seen by diplomats to be pushing King Carol's government closer than ever to the necessity of dropping neutrality and picking a side in the European war.

NAZI RAIDER DOWNED BY BRITISH PLANES

Ship Falls Off Northeast Coast of Scotland.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, March 7 — The air ministry announced today that British fighting planes shot down a German plane off the northeast coast of Scotland shortly after noon.

Royal air force planes earlier were announced to have scouted the German naval bases of Wilhelmshaven, Helgoland and Cuxhaven and most of the principal cities and ports of northwest Germany last night.

The air ministry said the planes drew anti-aircraft fire and great searchlight activity but all returned safely after covering an aggregate of 10,000 miles. It was the second successive night of such reconnaissance.

THAXTON BOY'S BODY FOUND

BULLETIN

The body of Donald Eugene Thaxton was found at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the Scioto river about half a mile from the scene of Monday's fatal boating accident. The discovery was made by a searching party of three men in a boat.

Cold weather and icy waters today hampered the dozen or so men who day after day are continuing the search for the body of nine-year-old Donald Eugene Thaxton, who was swept to his death in the Scioto river south of Agosta Monday.

Deputy Sheriff Marion Hinklin, who is leading the group of volunteer searchers, reported at noon that there still was no trace of the body.

Deputy Hinklin reported the water today was down 12 or 14 inches from yesterday but still is bank-full, probably averaging eight or ten feet deep, compared with a normal depth of four or six feet. It is down about six feet from its level Monday, he estimated.

Much of the nearby bottomlands is now clear, but other low areas where there is no current today had a firm coating of ice which checked the search there. At times the workers waded around in the icy parts, despite the iciness of the water.

Four boats were in use this morning, starting at about 7:30 after a night's recess.

Yesterday the men worked until about 6:30. Other officials who were out for a short time yesterday were Sheriff Fred P. Miller and Deputy W. H. Willis.

In spite of the cold weather a crowd of 50 or 60 persons remained on the bridge watching the progress of the search.

STOCKS CLING TO ADVANCES

Market, However, Is Under Some Pressure; Profit Taking Blamed.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 7 — The stock market's rally met a little resistance today but leaders, generally, managed to cling to modest advances.

Profit taking on Wednesday's bulge slowed the list after an active opening and many issues erased initial plus marks.

Bonds pointed higher, especially foreign dollar loans. Commodities inclined to tilt moderately forward. Overseas markets steadied.

There was an assortment of new 1940 highs among shares. These included United Drug, National Tea, Du Pont, American Telephone, Glenn Martin and Eastern Air Lines.

Favorable share performers were Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, Sperry, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Anaconda, Cerro De Pasco, Loft, Dow Chemical, N. Y. Central and Standard Oil of N. J.

While rails were not especially responsive, market analysts saw an optimistic factor in today's official summary of last week's freight loadings revealing a more than seasonal expansion in the face of a fall in coal traffic. Heartening was the fact that miscellaneous and merchandising shipments accounted for the greater part of the rumback.

Boston Wool

BOSTON, March 7—The undertone of the wool market in Boston was showing a slight improvement today. This was the result of recent mill inquiries, rather than reflected in actual business, especially in domestic wools. A number of mills have been inquiring for fine domestic wools, but actual trading has been extremely light. South African Merino wools have received an increase in demand in the past few days. Average to good combing length fine south African wools have brought mostly 67 to 72 cents, scoured basis, including the duty.

The Stars Say—

For Friday, March 8

A DAY of great expansion and culmination of high ambitions is the augury based on major planetary activities. It is a time for reaching toward advanced goals in worldly affairs, and for the attainment of the heart's desires in social, domestic, humane and friendly relationships. In the purely private domain it is likely that the feminine element will prove a decisive factor. In other directions there may be small impediments to cope with.

Those whose birthday it is are likely to encounter a year in which there are no limitations to success, happiness and achievement, except in their own restraints and restrictions. It is a time for pushing in all directions to the goal of heart's desire, and should there be a few minor frustrations, the counsel and affection of elderly women are likely.

A child born on this day may be efficient, industrious and ambitious, and also have a humane, compassionate, generous and expansive character.

Daily Pattern for Home Use

By ANNE ADAMS

NEAT COTTON HAS PEAKED WAIST

PATTERN 4404

Fashion is fickle, but here's style that will STAY in style season after season. Anne Adams' Pattern 4404 has such clean-cut, easy-to-stitch lines. The double front skirt panels are very flattering—cut them bias or straight and extend them to a high pointed waistline. A single center seam trims the back skirt for extra ease. Make the sleeves close fitting or crisply flared, and dart the shoulders generously to hold flat and trim the nice softness through the bodice. The youthful notched collar is becoming in self-fabric or in fresh contrast, with matching cuffs. Do use gay ric-rac or ruffle edging.

Pattern 4404 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50. Size 36 takes 4 yards 36 inch fabric and 1¾ yards ric-rac.

Send fifteen cents (15) in coins for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly size, name, address and style number.

MAN PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO DELINQUENCY CHARGE

Ray Kimmel, about 40, of South Vine street pleaded not guilty at an arraignment this morning before Juvenile Judge Oscar Gast to a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a 13-year-old Marion school girl. He allegedly accosted the girl Monday afternoon while she was walking home from school, according to Sheriff Fred F. Miller, who took him into custody. The sheriff reported he saw Kimmel talking with the girl and arrested him later at his home. The girl reported that he had previously enticed her to visit his quarters at a rooming house, court officials said. Kimmel was remanded to the county jail and his hearing has been set for Monday at 11 a. m. Kimmel has been known as Ray Winslow, having adopted that name after making his home with relatives of the same name.

HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 PINTS A DAY

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Kidneys remove excess acids and poisonous waste from your blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Commercial Work First Choice of Harding Pupils

275 List It As Occupational Preference in Answer to Vocational Guidance Quiz.

Many Harding High school students plan to enter commercial work more than any other field, according to a tabulation of responses to a questionnaire distributed as a part of the school's recently started vocational guidance program.

Approximately 275 boys and girls listed some part of commercial work as their occupational choice. Next highest classification was music and art with 72. Nearly 100 students, more than two-thirds of them boys, were undecided about their careers.

Of those expecting to enter the commercial field, about 200 were girls and the rest boys. In music and art, 54 were girls and 18 boys.

List in Detail

Other classifications were: engineering, 81, all girls but 19; mechanical work of some kind, 50, all boys; machinist's work, 34, all boys; nursing, 67, all girls; beauty culture, 28, all girls; domestic science, nine, all girls; law, five, all boys; aviation, 29, all boys; medicine, 14, four girls and 10 boys; journalism, 31, 13 girls and 18 boys; engineering, 56, all boys; agriculture, 27, including one in salesmanship, 22, 15 boys and seven girls.

The major part of the vocational guidance program, started Feb. 27, is expected to wind up in about four weeks or so, Principal K. H. Marshall reported. The program from now on will consist of several talks to different groups based on their job interests, and individual conferences with pupils who request them. Leaders in various job fields will be invited to the school to talk with the students.

First Speakers

Miss Mary Breneman of the county health office was the first speaker, talking with the girls interested in nursing. Mrs. Valeria Stuckert, Marion beauty shop proprietor, discussed beauty culture with girls interested in that work this week.

Today Paul Barrett, personnel director of the Ohio Oil Co. at Findlay, spoke at 9:15 to the juniors and seniors on various vocations. He was also to confer with smaller groups and at noon was to speak at the weekly Kiwanis club meeting.

Mr. Marshall is planning to invite a personnel expert from Ohio State university to speak later and also to complete arrangements for a talk by a representative of a large Columbus department store.

Last night all of the teachers of the school met for a discussion of the program.

Next Tuesday morning the girls interested in domestic service are to be taken on a tour of Hotel Harding.

All Ready To Aid

Cooperation has been promised by representatives of local industry. Mr. Marshall commented that a fine spirit of cooperation has been shown not only by the teachers but also by various groups in the city.

The questionnaire, which forms the basis of the guidance program, contained several questions in addition to those on occupations.

The pupils were asked to list their hobbies, their favorite leisure time activities, and also information about their parents.

Among hobbies listed were photography, nature study, hiking, bicycling, horse riding, sewing, cooking, sports, movies, soap carving, collecting, reading and model airplane building.

Leisure time activities varied widely. One student reported she spent her leisure time working.

S.S.S. TONIC
must be good
So many people take it
—to increase appetite
—to boost energy

COUNTLESS thousands of men and women can testify to the benefits S.S.S. Tonic has brought them.

The facts are simple because of all conditions effecting the human body a low blood count is most deceptive. If you feel rundown . . . lack a keen appetite . . . have lost weight . . . don't give up until you restore those precious red-blood-cells back to normal.

S.S.S. Tonic may be just what you need to get you on the right road to health and happiness again.

In S.S.S. Tonic you go after the trouble in two ways . . . first you increase the appetite and better your stomach digestion—thus making better use of the food you eat—secondly, thin, weak, watery blood is made rich and red again thus giving you a boost in energy.

Try S.S.S. which any drug store can supply and no ethical dealer will suggest a substitute. The big 20 oz. size is a two week's treatment and represents a saving in the purchase price. S.S.S. Co.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Fainting Attacks

THE CAUSE of a fainting attack is interruption of the blood supply to the brain. This results in a complete, sudden blotting out of consciousness, which returns gradually. The mechanism behind the occasional fainting attack which occurs from fatigue is sudden lowering of the blood pressure. I have several times had the experience of examining life insurance applicants who fainted from nervousness while the blood pressure cups was actually on their arm. The blood pressure went down to practically zero at the moment of loss of consciousness.

The fainting of sudden emotional shock is due to a long period when the heart ceases to contract (asystole).

The treatment of a fainting attack is that supplied by nature. A fainting person kneels over or falls on the floor, which allows the blood to run into the head, even if the blood pressure is down to zero and the heart has temporarily stopped beating. So we commonly say for treatment, "Put the head down lower than the feet." The nervous reaction of the blood flowing into the skull starts the mechanism of circulation so the heart begins to beat and raises the blood pressure again.

Prescribing for Doctors

A NEW twist in the legal complications of the medical profession vs. the New Deal sends their anti-trust case back to the District of Columbia court for trial. It had been dismissed previously when American Medical association pleaded that the practice of medicine is not a trade but a profession and therefore not subject to prosecution under the Sherman anti-trust act.

There now seems to be thrown open the exciting possibility that if the medical profession is a trade and subject to prosecution under the Sherman act the legal profession might become a passenger in the same boat. The possibility is exciting because it would be hard to imagine a more edifying spectacle than lawyers taking their professional problems into court and making a popular issue of them.

In fact, it is so hard to imagine that the idea is preposterous. If the lawyers ever need doctoring for their professional ills they will stand on their constitutional right of self-medication. But doctors, it seems, can't be trusted to heal themselves; they must go under the care of lawyers.

Three Per Cent

THE war was relatively quiet Tuesday. A sharp ear could have heard a bomb explode in a tin pan factory.

But there was important war news. In London it was announced that next Tuesday a new British war loan of approximately $1,200,000,000 would be floated at three per cent. Bonds will be issued at par and will be redeemable at par on Oct. 15, 1959.

Three per cent of $1,200,000,000 is $36,000,000. In 19 years the exchequer will have stood $684,000,000 of interest and still won't be out of the woods. Furthermore, $1,200,000,000 plus $684,000,000 is only a drop in the bucket. Compared with what the war is going to cost Great Britain, to say nothing of unpayable debts being piled up by the other belligerents—on top of the unpaid bill for the World war—it's as inconsequential as March 5, 1940, was in the second World war.

Brother, Can You Spare A Million?

PRESIDENT Robert M. Hutchins of University of Chicago has explained to alumni that the university is spending $1,200,000 a year more than its income and can't curtail its budget, a dilemma usually associated with government. Referring to Dr. Hutchins' explanation, as given some months ago in Saturday Evening Post, one learns that further curtailment would entail paying unreasonably low wages to the university's personnel, already underpaid.

The Post article also contained a recommendation that endowed institutions whose income is dwindling as interest rates decline should live off principal. In his report to alumni Dr. Hutchins says the possibility of doing this in Chicago's case is exhausted, therefore the university needs an assured income from gifts of $1,200,000 a year for the next 10 years. He does not ask alumni to advance this amount, but seeks their support in persuading philanthropists to make the money available.

Chicago's plight, modified, is the headache of of every endowed institution. Dr. Hutchins points out that 40 percent of its income has been wiped out by falling interest rates, a typical shrinkage. In the meantime, Price Jones Corp., a firm which specializes in raising funds, reports that total gifts and bequests to a group of 82 universities and colleges declined four percent in the year ending last June 30 from the previous year. This continues a consistent decline dating back to 1929.

Dependent on gifts for the independence that has given them leadership in education, private colleges and universities are facing the probability of years of starvation and the possibility, in the case of many smaller institutions, of extinction. They have nothing to match the generous allowances made available to tax-supported institutions not as a matter of philanthropy but as a matter of right, backed up by organized pressure groups.

Allegory

IT'S not every day that Americans get the benefit of an allegory about government.

Shenandoah was just an average small town, outwardly safe and sound as a hickory nut.

Then one day there was a rumbling and a creaking and when the dust settled Shenandoah had caved in here and there.

Confidence was shaken. The immediate damage, while great, was less fearsome than the damage in store. No one ever would believe in the soundness of Shenandoah again.

For years men had been undermining it, taking out what they wanted and putting nothing back. Something was bound to happen sometime.

Finally it did happen. The thoughtless were astonished. The thoughtful merely wondered what the thoughtless expected.

News Behind the News

Morgenthau Reported To Have Shelved Part of Proposed Spending Program.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, March 7—The echo of a painful outcry against new spending as delivered in President Roosevelt's own office is reverberating through the New Deal stratosphere. Author of the anguish was Treasury Secretary Morgenthau, who delivered more excruciating anguish than any other New Dealer. And it was done in the presence of spending promoters Eccles and Currie.

Paul Mallon

Details of this meeting of the spending mastodons vs. the keeper of the cash across the President's desk have been more carefully suppressed than usual. But it is known Mr. Morgenthau screamed long and loudly against new spending talk at a time when he is getting ready to refinance more than a $1,000,000,000 of public debt. He has $738,000,000 of 1½ per cent five year notes coming due June 15, and $353,000,000 of 3¾ per cent bonds up for refinancing at the same time.

With the bond market somewhat sensitive, Mr. Morgenthau's task is not being made easier by the attempt of the Eccles-Currie-Corcoran-Henderson crowd to push the President into a new spending program, even a little one.

Same Horse

One decision certainly was made. No one must refer to whatever new spending program is adopted as a new spending program. As the spenders tell it, the question is merely whether the adopted policy is to be continued at the old scale, or whether the curtailments already made by Mr. Roosevelt and congress are to be permitted to stand in the face of the drop in business. Nevertheless, it is the same horse and practically the same color.

Demands Trimmed

The spenders may trim their demands down to a new appropriation for housing and farm partly payments as a result of the meeting in the President's office. The USHA was denied $800,000,000 by the last session of congress and is now out of money. Apparently the Eccles-Currie crowd wants about $800,000,000 more now and may attempt to turn the program into a new path in which the government would finance rural home construction. The spenders have been working secretly with several southern Democratic congressmen on bills which would permit USHA to raise its money by direct flotation of its bonds outside the budget.

The White House has been opposing $112,000,000 to $225,000,000, mentioned in congress for farm parity payments, but the spenders are throwing their weight in for this also.

All this seems simply to mean that whatever concessions the President makes to the spenders will be done quietly and piecemeal and not advertised as a spending program.

Census Issue

Behind the prying census bureau questionnaire, avoiding all the brickbats, is the now socially minded commerce department, presided over by Assistant Secretary Noble. Mr. Noble sometimes acts for the ill and absent secretary, Mr. Hopkins, and sometimes for Mr. Thomas Corcoran, muscle man of the left wing.

It is these three hidden figures at whom the Republicans are really aiming in their attack upon the comparatively innocent census officials.

The congressional assailants have learned confidentially that the worst of the proposed questions (requiring even the poorest citizens to tell their incomes and financial situations) were suggested to the census bureau in the name of Mr. Hopkins (meaning Mr. Noble.)

Their purpose according to the same lines of information, was to find out among other things how much more income tax could be raised by lowering exemptions to bring in the great bulk of lower income groups.

Criticisms

Corridor criticism in congress centers not so much upon the probable unconstitutionality of prying into citizens' privacy, as upon the political and common sense shortsightedness of the New Dealers for even advocating such a step.

No matter what congress does, the census takers are not likely to get any accurate data from their survey. None of the lower income groups keeps books, many are part time employes receiving various wages and fees. Few could estimate with any accuracy their past earnings over yearly periods, even if they wanted to. Furthermore, the variety of wage situations would permit the greatest latitude by the individual in guessing his net income.

Unless congress acts, a mass movement will be organized to decline answering such inquiries regardless of penalties. They can't put a million or more people in jail.

Heard in Switzerland

No Spring Drive in West One of Many Reports at Bern.

By CHARLES S. FOLTZ, JR.

BERN, March 7—The greatest collection of foreign observers—official and unofficial—that little Switzerland has ever seen is busily watching the straws blown about in the winds of the war.

One legation has 14 officers helping its military attache in Bern. They've shown only a polite interest in Switzerland's little army.

Charles Foltz, Jr.

Another has more than 20 people in the office of the legation's press attache. Few of them spend much time reading the Swiss press.

Representatives of Allied and German commercial interests have increased their staffs at the very time when Swiss industry is fighting valiantly to keep its head above water.

All these official and semi-official representatives of governments, along with a host of people who know their employers wouldn't lift a finger to help them officially, are watching the war.

Their opinions frequently differ and even more frequently are guesses, but they're listened to back in a score of world capitals. What they report means much to decisions taken there.

Watching a war is far too big a job to tackle single-handed. Almost all these observers have their friends, or people they believe are friends, with whom they exchange information. So things get around.

Here's their opinion on a few questions everybody's asking.

THAT BIG SPRING PUSH ON THE WESTERN FRONT

Few really believe that such a push will come at all. Reasons:

(1) Neither the Allied command nor Germany is willing to pay the cost in men and morale for a drive against the powerful West Wall or the Maginot line.

(2) Both see advantage in letting the other fellow sit in the trenches with nothing to do.

The Germans believe the Frenchman is an excellent soldier if his country is invaded, but hasn't the patience to sit in a trench and wait without grousing about the government.

The Germans believe the English need a lot of prodding—but in their own homes, not in France.

The Allies believe German economy will crack under the Allied blockade.

(3) Invasion of the three western neutrals would bring not only possible action by more powerful neutrals (Italy in the event of an invasion of Switzerland) but military headaches.

Switzerland's little army, numerically stronger and better equipped than the Finns, defends a small northeast, southwest corridor between the Alps and the Jura—which is strategically not a comfortable spot for any army to be caught in.

For Germany the Swiss "side door" leads only to the well-fortified French Jura or into the Rhone valley—far from German bases. For the Allies the same "side door" leads to the same old Rhine to be crossed again—and then they're only in the Black Forest.

Once through Belgium either invader would face an extension of the "enemy's" line — not to mention Belgium's own lines and the revamped Belgian army.

Of those who do believe the push may come this spring on land, across the Western Front, most see the Allies as the attackers, driven to such an offensive by Germany's submarine and air successes.

THAT AIR ARMADA ATTACK

Many believe that England is in for an aerial attack from Germany this spring. German propagandists call Britain "the perfect target." Many a military man believes they're right and that it's "this spring or never" for Marshal Goering's airmen.

By next fall, say these sources, the Allied plane production, augmented by supplies from America, will be close on the heels of the German turnout.

A few observers think Germany might try to grab the Netherlands as a base for such attacks by air, but others think Holland's bonds with Belgium and her weapon of water are potent enough to keep the Germans out.

Almost all agree that Paris has little to fear from the air and that the Germans will continue to let Frenchmen sit idle in trenches and at anti-aircraft guns wondering about the war and about German propaganda.

THAT BLOCKADE

If Germany can turn out submarines and man them faster than the Allies can sink them, observers in Switzerland say, Britain may be the one to worry about a blockade.

They don't believe Germany can turn out big submarines at that pace, but they'd still like to know whether the Germans are turning out "pocket subs," and, if so, how effective they are.

The German goal of blockading Britain with a ring of mines and submarines is far from achievement now. If it remains only a hope for another year, few believe Germany can stand the strain of the Allied blockade for many months.

THAT RUSSIAN BEAR

Almost all agree that the Soviet bugaboo isn't so much after all. Many think the Finns have shown the Russians up to be so weak that the Allies may try to get at Germany via the Caucasus, the Ukraine and Poland this spring.

"HITLER BROADCASTING!"

On The Record

New Book, "The American Stakes," Is Analyzed by Dorothy Thompson.

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

JOHN CHAMBERLAIN'S "The American Stakes" is an important book if for no other reason than for the light it throws upon the direction which youthful Left Wing thought is beginning to take in America.

Mr. Chamberlain is in his thirties. He is exceptionally gifted, vigorously intelligent and honestly groping. He is a journalist of varied training. He has been for a number of years a book reviewer and has read, it seems, practically everything that has been written in recent years — and in remote times — about politics and economics. He has also been a reporter, one of "Fortune's" young men, and has therefore had opportunity to test theoretical ideas against the actual behavior of men and women in organized groups.

Dorothy Thompson

Mr. Chamberlain knows all about guild socialism but, curiously enough, relegates its ideas to at least temporary eclipse, failing to observe the very strong traces of them that are in the conception if not the practice of Mussolini's corporate state. Schuschnigg's "Staendestaat" and Hitler's projected state, with its hierarchical structure of labor front and professional, managerial and peasant organizations, each with its "status." He does not see that the various forms of Fascism, were the political power differently distributed, actually approach guild socialism.

But he has discovered suddenly what a lot of people whom he criticizes have always known, namely, that the essential problem of political and economic life is the problem of power. In a fine burst of discovery he announces on page one that "no book on politics is worth its salt if the author lacks a clear notion of the origins and evolving nature of the state." He then, for heaven's sake, accuses Walter Lippmann and this columnist of "ignoring or forgetting the origin of state power in brutally unashamed force."

Protest

Since the continual recognition of that origin is perhaps the one thing that Mr. Lippmann and I have in common, and that Mr. Chamberlain and most of the Left Wing political commentators of this country have neglected giving thought to, one wonders how come.

It was not necessary to go to Russia or to wait to see what Russia would do to know what was wrong with Russian Communism. What is wrong with it is that it is politically a means for the delegation of irrevocable tyrannical and naked power. This is inherent both in the structure of the Soviets, which Mr. Chamberlain does not analyze, and in the nature of the party which he does not clearly analyze. He speaks of the "Politburo" as if it were an instrument of the state, actually the state is an instrument of the Politburo, which is the governing body of the party. The state has been reduced to the "executive committee" which Marx foresaw. The state is a mere bureaucracy, and all power is in the party, which is a gang, or, as Mr. Chamberlain illuminatingly describes this thing falsely called the totalitarian state, a "strict racket."

The NEP

Mr. Chamberlain praises the NEP phase of the Russian experiment as its best and most hopeful phase. But the NEP phase was doomed because none of its contracts was ever legally protected. To use Mr. Chamberlain's phraseology, the NEP men, the peasants, craftsmen and small entrepreneurs who briefly had a chance to use their own initiative, were merely people whom the "strict racket," with its gang leader, permitted to work one

The Hall of Fa

We're Still Convinced O. He longs There and Have Place Name in 1940 Nominations

By DAMON RUNYO

IN REPLY to our recent suggestion Henry (William Sydney Porter) in New York University's Hall of Fam L. Lyons, assistant to the director of John H. Finley, has sent us a blank proposal of candidates.

Any citizen may propose the name or woman who was born in this cou identified with it in activities, who deceased 25 years or more. This will be submitted to the college of electors, which now comprises 114 well known persons representing every state in the union. They vote on the various names until mid-October.

We have proposed the name of O. Henry. There are 10 blank lines on the form on which the nomination is made. The form states that elaborate data are not necessary, but published sources of further information may be cited. We used one line. Our ground nomination of O. Henry is as the American short story writer.

We looked over the roll of the electors and saw at once that no e of data was necessary. We would bet there are not five electors who read O. Henry. Their opinion as to portance in literature is another matte

IT IS not so easy for an author to the hall of fame. In 35 years, (the are held every five years) only 16 h elected—Bancroft, Bryant, Cooper, Tw erson, Hawthorne, Holmes, Longfellow, Motley, Parkman, Poe, Harriet Beeche Whitman and Whittier.

Of these a couple may give pres litterateurs pause. For instance, Mot was John Lothrop Motley, born 1814, 1877, elected to the hall of fame in 19 votes. His tablet was unveiled in 19 was United States minister to Aus Great Britain. His literary fame w historian of Holland.

Among many writers who failed to the requisite number of votes to enter of Fame from 1900 to 1935 were Lou Alcott, Thomas Bailey Aldrich, Stephe Eugene Field, Joel Chandler Harris, Br Helen Hunt Jackson, Francis Scot Stephen Foster, Sidney Lanier, Henry Herman Melville, George William Cu Charles Eliot Norton.

The mighty editors, Horace Gree Charles A. Dana could not get in. D ceived a single vote in 1920. Greele in 1900, 35 in 1905, 30 in 1910, 14 in seven in 1920, after which his na dropped out. It is the ratio of fame's

IT SEEMS curious the author of "T Spangled Banner," Francis Scott Ke got more than six votes on the six his name was proposed from 1905 Still, it is no more curious than the f patriots like Stephen Decatur, Natha Israel Putnam, Oliver Hazard Perry a C. Fremont.

James G. Blaine, John C. Calhoun Sherman, John Hancock, Jefferson Stonewall Jackson, Zachary Taylor, A Stephens, Thomas Hart Benton, Willia Seward and Sam Houston are missi Grover Cleveland is in there and the Fame is making much ado about the ing of his bust on March 18, centenar birth.

Cleveland was first proposed in got 35 votes, not enough. In 1935 h and was elected. Grover was a good p but we doubt that his importance to public was anything like that of Sam and Zachary Taylor.

We feel bad about the absence of F vere, too. He got 15 votes in 1920 u heading of "soldiers and sailors," an 1930, then was goose-egged in 1935. by that time the electors were so au conscious they did not know of Paul manship.

THE Hall of Fame of Great Ameri give it the full title, stands on the of New York university overlooking th ades and the Hudson and Harlem river It was originated by Dr. Henry M. N en, former chancellor of the universi Finley J. Shepard (Helen Gould) made sible through a gift.

The idea was to give place to 150 A celebrities, starting with 50 in 1900 and five names at the close of every fi thereafter. They elected 29 the first by 1921 a total of 56 had been ele 1925 only two were chosen and in 193 making a total of 72, among them seven Quota for the coming election is 18.

The Hall of Fame is a splendid in of education and patriotic value. We only one drawback to it. You have to to get in.

She came to an abrupt stop before Timothy Toland's portrait. "Just what did you have in your mind when you drew up that will?" she demanded. "You've had me brought out here six months before I can claim the property. You gave Allen ten thousand dollars before you died, he says, so I could carry on the farm. If that's the idea, why couldn't you have given the ten thousand to me, so I wouldn't have to dance to that legal gigolo's tune?"

Abe sauntered in, nibbling a leaf. "Reckon I can answer some of them questions," he offered. "Comin' frog time. Farm needs someone to start the marketing. If you don't get the big ones moved out, there won't be no room for those that are growin' up.

"Frogs is like pigs; they're prolific. They got the same kind of appetites too. They'd eat up your profits if you don't start movin' 'em to market."

Tomi wheeled on Abe. "So that's it. I'm sent out here to put the farm on its feet financially. I start with a handicap that could be made up next year. But I have to show profit at the end of this season, or lose the place. That's just dandy; and with Bartell's fingers cramped around the purse-strings, what chance have I?"

'Aimin' to Marry'

Abe stroked his mustache. "Aw now, pardner, I reckon we can make a go of it, you and me."

"But why didn't he give the money to me?"

"Maybe he thought you'd spend it for pretties."

"How well did you know Uncle Timothy?" she demanded.

Abe pondered over this. "Don't know as I can say. Knowed him off and on for years. Then when he bought this place he come after me and I lived with him here for a few months. But can't say I really knowed him. You remember how he was, sayin' one thing and meanin' another. Seemed to me like he was laughing at everything and everybody, but mostly at himself."

Tomi nodded. And this heritage of hers was the grand ellmax to his career of practical joking.

"Where does Lily fit into the picture?" she asked thoughtfully. "Did Uncle Timothy know her?"

Abe guffawed. "He sure did. Said once he'd never before seen a blonde gadfly."

Tomi brightened. "Then why does she think she has some claim on the property?"

"Lily's like that. She's aimin' to marry Allen when he can get around to it, and she figures anything he's got a hand in is hers. She and him got raised together; lived next door to each other. Guess he's had to put up with her for so long it ain't occurred to him he don't have to."

"Well, I wasn't reared with her," stated Tomi, emphatically, "and I don't have to put up with her. The idea of her accusing me or anyone else of trespassing."

"Aw now," soothed Abe, "she ain't so bad if you don't take her serious."

"I'm not taking her any way," said Tomi with such finality that Abe went shuffling out of the house.

Tomi went back to her stance before Timothy's portrait. Something didn't ring true. If he had thought she had enough business ability to make a success of the farm, why had he thought she would foolishly spend the money he'd set aside?

She wished she had waited to question Bartell, or hired a Chicago attorney to question him, before she started West. Never having been involved in legacies, she hadn't realized that six months had to elapse before an estate was distributed. Anything could happen within those six months. The family might contest the will and win.

"But had I known what was ahead, I'd have stayed on with A. J.," she murmured. "This way, I have a six months' start. And, believe me, Timothy Toland, I'm going to take advantage of those months. There'll be legs...frogs' legs....on every table in the land."

First, however, she must find a place where she might sleep with some assurance of safety.

She started a tour of the house and gradually forgot Uncle Timothy, Lily, even Allen Bartell.

Five rooms had been crowded onto the first floor. Five rooms with tall, narrow windows looking out on nothing in particular.

She ascended the stairs to confront five small bedrooms and a bath larger than any of them. She would turn the south side into one big room; at present she'd content herself with the southwest room overlooking the bay—and, her subconscious mind prompted, Allen Bartell's house.

She admitted reluctantly that his place was attractive. It was modernistic in line with windows like exaggerated portholes, their sea-blue frames gay against the white clapboard walls. She could barely see the end of a veranda which was built like a deck, but it seemed to protrude to the very brink of a short cliff and there joined a pier which jutted into the bay.

Outside, in a grove of black salt cedars, was a barbecue pit, a court which was probably used for squash ball and badminton, a driving tee and putting green.

"All it needs is a slide and a sandbox to make it a perfect playground," grumbled Tomi.

She spent the rest of the morning listing things she must purchase in town. Abe ambled back to sit, chewing a leaf of mint, his spicy aroma fresh in the musty air of the old house. Abe wanted any number of things for the frogs.

"Got to get the cafeteria started," he explained. "Didn't get seeds, so you'd better buy plants." At Tomi's bewildered look he elucidated, "Sweet smellin' blossoms bring bees and insects, so we want them inside the pens and the frogs hop out and help themselves. Frogs only eat alive meat."

"And what would you like for yourself, Abe? Isn't there something special you'd like for dinner?"

"Sure is," sighed Abe, "Steak—but I couldn't eat it, 'ceptin' ground."

Onto Tomi's list went, "Teeth for Abe." And, as an afterthought, "Cookbook for myself."

Then she thought of the car. She had better look it over, perhaps back it out that circuitous driveway to the front of the house, before she dressed for town.

"Where's the garage, Abe?" she asked as she started for the pens.

Abe blinked at her.

"The garage, where we keep the automobile," she repeated.

"Oh, that." Abe jerked his thumb towards a ramshackle shed.

Tomi approached the shed with considerable apprehension, the memory of Allen's words ringing a warning. She took one look inside. So Timothy Toland had had the nerve to call that an automobile. No wonder there were doors at both ends of the shed.

Tomi blocked open the south doors which would allow her to drive forward, then surveyed the vehicle. It was almost as old as Abe and in as dire need of repair. Even the sagging fenders drooped like the caretaker's mustache.

"Maybe," she thought, hopefully, "it has an amiable disposition."

It took her just fifteen minutes to learn that its disposition was a counterpart of Allen Bartell's. There was a maddening chuckle somewhere underneath the hood. The angrier Tomi grew, the louder the engine chuckled.

"Abe!" Tomi's voice was strident with anger. "Abe! Come in and see if you can make this confounded tin-can do anything but laugh."

The old man dragged up the driveway, patted the fenders and opined the car was "a little fussy." He squeezed under the wheel and began the same sing-song communion he had used on the frogs. And, frog-like, it responded.

Tomi fled as the car sprang into the air and went leaping along the driveway, Abe alternately hitting top and seat, his face wearing a look of fatuous pride.

HOSPITAL TESTS REVEAL GREAT DISCOVERY FOR CONSTIPATION

At last—here's an ideal, "daily" treatment for constipation with its headaches, mental dullness, fatigue and sallow skin.

Tests in a world-famous hospital have proved a "little daily dose" of Kruschen (world-famous formula, now at last obtainable in pleasant tasting "bubbling" form) actually produces nature's own gentle, pleasant, "daily" bowel movements by keeping the waste matter in the colon moist, soft and easy to expel.

Scientists report: "Kruschen can be taken for years without having to increase the dose." Also acts as a mild Antacid and Kidney Stimulant. Gives you MORE for your money, too! A jar that costs only a trifle lasts for WEEKS. Over 245,000,000 jars have been sold thruout the world. Kruschen MUST be good—it MUST do the work! Made in U. S. A.

Now Comes in Pleasant Tasting "Bubbling" Form!

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Edith Resents Madge's Reference to Old Sweetheart.

FOR A LONG second I had no answer for Edith Fairfax's bitter cry.

There was so much truth in the plaint that I did not know how to frame an answer which would bring her either comfort or encouragement. While she was far from being the dying woman which her mendacious letter to me had led me to believe she was, yet she was broken nervously and physically—not beyond repair, but in no shape to cope with the business world in which she had played a creditable part for a number of years.

Romantically and emotionally she was bankrupt, for she had given all her love to Dicky, my husband, who never had given her anything in return except a partnership in the unsuccessful art magazine which he had taken over for a bad debt, and which to everyone's surprise had rebloomed into success, a success which Dicky freely admitted was due more to Edith's unsuspected and surprising flair for business than to his own work, good as that had been.

Madge Promises Help

But Edith's jealousy of me, and her constant nagging of Dicky had worn him to the point where he had told her they could no longer continue the magazine on a partnership basis. Her illness and trip south had delayed the final formal rupture, but I knew that Edith never had given up hope of getting back to the magazine until the realization that her plot against me had almost proved fatal to Dicky. That led her to a voluntary abdication.

I knew that I was weak enough in this moment of pity to promise her that I would try to induce Dicky to reverse his decision. But I sternly reminded myself that I had no right to make such a promise on something which wholly concerned my husband, especially as I knew how rabid he was upon this particular question. But I felt that from somewhere I must find something encouraging for her.

A Sore Spot

There was one thing I could tell her, but to speak of it would be like roughly touching an open wound. I had nothing else, however, and I took my courage in both hands and spoke out.

"Please forgive me if what I am saying is offensive to you," I said, "but am I wrong in the impression that there has been a future for you in the south at any moment you cared to take it?"

For an instant I thought she was going to strike me, there was such anger in her face.

"You dare," she said vehemently, "to speak of that!"

"I'm sorry, Ede," I said humbly. "I know I have no right to bring that subject up, but I could not help knowing about it and you seemed so needlessly despairing just now, that I—"

Old Love

My voice trailed helplessly away into silence, and I sat with averted eyes, chagrined and humiliated that I had failed in my effort to comfort and encourage her.

Why, why, I asked myself rebelliously, could she not have returned the love of Jim Paige, the manly young chap who described himself as her "fourth or fifth cousin" and who had loved her since childhood?

Not even the knowledge of her hopeless infatuation for Dicky, and her consequent—and constant—flouting of Jim's suit, had diminished the love and the watchful care which he had lavished upon her. I had wondered sometimes if he had not been so constant and dependable a lover what Edith's reaction might have been.

But it was plain enough what her present reaction was. At least I thought it was evident, until she astounded me by flinging herself on her knees beside me, burying her head in my lap, and breaking into tempestuous sobbing.

"I don't deserve to live," she wailed. "I hurt and insult everybody who tries to help me. Why can't I die?" side of the street until the strict racket got around to that side of the street itself. The only way the NEP could have protected itself was by guns, for that is the only way anything is protected in Russia. And the strict racket allowed them no guns. Therefore, when the moment came they were liquidated.

Mr. Chamberlain comes to the conclusion that, the nature of the state being what it is, the best that can be hoped for it is that it act as a broker between contending pressure groups. Again he chides this column for lamenting that Mr. John L. Lewis merely represents "another pressure group." That, according to Mr. Chamberlain, as Mr. Lewis' function, just as it is the function of the National Association of Manufacturers to represent its interests."

I agree with Mr. Chamberlain that it is perhaps futile to expect of any labor leader—of Mr. John L. Lewis, for instance—that he represent anybody except labor. One must not ask him to think of the welfare of society as a whole, and to lament that he does not do so puts one down as a "philosophical idealist."

PREDICTS U. S. WILL BUY GEN. SHERMAN'S HOME

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 6—Rep. H. K. Claypool (D-Ohio) predicted today a favorable report on his proposal to have the government acquire the Lancaster, O., birthplace of William T. Sherman, Union general in the Civil war.

It is proposed to transform the structure into a national shrine.

Secretary Ickes sent Historian Roy E. Appleton to Lancaster Monday to discuss the matter with civic organizations advocating the purchase. Appleton will submit his report to the national advisory board on historic sites.

What To Do with 18 Billions in Gold, Is Question Before Treasury Officials

The United States owns more than $18,000,000,000 in gold and is adding to that gigantic treasure hoard daily. What—if anything—should be done about it? This, the first of three articles, discusses the varied suggestions being made.

By LLOYD LEHRBAS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON, March 7—The United States government today owns $19,953,588.5 ounces of gold (valued at $35 an ounce) worth $18,187,875,536.81. This is about 83 per cent of the world's total monetary gold.

European and Asiatic countries needing cash to buy war supplies or other American products, or seeking a safe place for their treasure, are shipping more gold to this country at the rate of about $50,000,000 a week.

During 1938 American imports of gold were more than $2,000,000,000. During 1939, largely as a result of war-frightened gold shipments, the United States added $3,132,000,000 to its hoard, creating the greatest concentration of the symbol of wealth in the history of the world.

Flow Will Continue

Even if the treasuries of other countries should be drained of the gold they now possess, the avalanche probably will continue to flow toward the United States in the form of the more than a billion dollars worth of the precious metal mined annually.

What—if anything—to do with that rapidly increasing gold hoard is providing treasury, federal reserve bank and private economists and fiscal experts with endless hours of figuring and pondering.

Gold itself is a yellow, non-corrosive, lustrous metal which can be hammered into jewelry, used to fill teeth, beaten into gold-leaf, or spun into gold thread to ornament uniforms and regalia. Otherwise gold has little practical use.

Since practical use of the metal itself has such limited possibilities, the question of what if anything to do with the United States' accumulating pile of gold bars has split economists into two schools of thought.

Contend It's Working

One group, including many of the treasury and federal reserve bank system's experts, contends that the country's gold is already "working" since it serves as the base for United States currency.

Ownership of that vast stock of gold, they contend, is an asset to the United States since it guarantees the nation's paper currency and provides a "nest-egg" of negotiable metal which might be sold or transferred to some other country if needed in the future.

The only problem ownership of so much gold creates, they assert, is in the administration of credit machinery, including the question of inflation.

The other school of economists considers the mounting gold pile a staggering nuisance which might become a distinct liability, and demands that some action be taken to reduce it or put it to work in some practical manner.

States Other Side

That side of the question has been stated by Howard J. Trueblood in reports of the foreign policy association.

"This huge increase is unwanted," he wrote, "since it can serve no useful purpose in the United States; and has contributed to the maldistribution of world monetary reserves. Hence, there is general agreement that our excess stocks are at least a nuisance, and at worst a tangible danger to our monetary and credit structure, owing to their inflationary potentialities."

The economists who consider the gold an asset point out that from the dawn of history gold has been the world's cash and the stock now owned by the United States therefore has the exact value of that much cash.

During the nineteenth century an elaborate system of world exchange and credit—based on gold—was developed. No country mints gold coins now, but all issue paper currency which is "backed" or guaranteed by gold on deposit in their central banks or treasuries.

Treasury and federal reserve bank authorities report that all the gold owned by the United States, except approximately $2,200,000,000, is "pledged" to cover outstanding paper currency and is therefore serving its destined purpose.

Most of the actual gold, in addition, is kept in the treasury or mints and banks in New York, Philadelphia and San Francisco, only $3,523,000,000 being actually buried in reinforced concrete vaults at Fort Knox, Ky.

HIGHWAY SCHOOL AT DELAWARE OPENS

Employes from Seven Counties Hear State Director.

State highway department employes from Marion and the seven other counties comprising Division 6 will be at the headquarters in Delaware today and Friday, attending a "school" for field workers and an exposition of department activities for the public.

Last night, preliminary to the opening "school" sessions, more than 500 men and women heard Col. Robert S. Beightler, state director of the department, in a discussion of departmental activities, aims and hopes at a public dinner forum at St. Mary's school in Delaware. The exhibits remained on display at the school through today.

With only 34.39 per cent of the license tag and gasoline tax revenues returned annually to the state for new construction and maintenance of its 18,616 miles of highway system, the Ohio department is stymied in any effort it makes to keep pace with modern highway requirements, Colonel Beightler told the group. He said that in view of the fact that 74 per cent of all rural traffic is carried on 12,000 miles of that network of roads in the state highway system, the problem is definitely acute.

FCA OUTLINES PLANS FOR AID TO FARMERS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 6 — The farm credit administration told congress today that it was trying to keep farmers on the land through a lenient loan and payment plan, broadened since the agency was placed under control of the agriculture department last summer.

These plans have been criticized by some congressmen and farm organizations on the ground that they "mix credit with relief."

The FCA said that each delinquent borrower would be judged by a four-point test of "worthiness" and that if he passed, he would be granted special financial assistance.

The delinquent borrower would have to show that he (1) is doing his best, (2) is applying the proceeds of his production above necessary living and operating expenses on his primary application, (3)) is taking proper care of his land or other security, and (4) is able to carry a reasonable burden of debts under normal conditions.

ERIE MAKES REPORT ON AUTO ACCIDENTS

Lists 25 Per Cent Increase at Crossings Last Year.

Reckless motorists are on the increase at least at grade crossings Motor accidents at railroad crossings of the Erie system increased 25 per cent in 1939 over the previous year according to figures just announced and the number of drivers who crashed into the sides of trains caused 27 per cent of the accidents in the same period.

Of all the accidents that took place last year 109 or 68 per cent occurred at crossings where the railroad maintains extra protection for the motorists such as flasher lights wig-wags alarm bells gates and posted human watchmen according to the Erie report. Yet the figures show that eight of the accidents were caused by automobiles running through lowered gates and 42 of them or 27 per cent were the result of drivers ignoring the watchman's signal In 35 of the accidents or 30 per cent of the total vehicles stalled on the tracks in the path of the train indicating that drivers became confused while crossing the tracks

Distribution of accidents by states indicates that motor vehicle drivers are more careful in some sections of the country than in others New Jersey showed the smallest increase with only 4 per cent over 1938 New York was next with an increase of 11 per cent In Indiana there was an increase of 18 per cent over the previous year and the states showing the largest increase were Ohio and Pennsylvania in each of which it was 50 per cent

Isn't This Why You Are Constipated?

What do you eat for breakfast? Coffee toast, maybe some eggs? What do you eat for lunch and dinner? White bread meat, potatoes? It's little wonder you're constipated You probably don't eat enough bulk And bulk doesn't mean the amount you eat It's a kind of food that forms a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a movement. If this is your trouble may we suggest a crunchy toasted cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran—for breakfast. All-Bran is a natural food not a medicine—but it's particularly rich in "bulk" Being so, it can help you not only to get regular but to keep regular Eat All-Bran regularly and drink plenty of water Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek If your condition is chronic it is wise to consult a physician.

SWEDEN MAKES PEACE MOVES

Stockholm Seeks Role of Mediator in Russian War on Finland.

By The Associated Press

STOCKHOLM, March 7—Sweden is seeking to arrange an armistice in the Russian-Finnish war, usually reliable sources said today, adding that Russian peace terms recently had been presented to Finland.

The exact nature of the terms is still the subject of speculation, but there were unconfirmed reports that Russia demanded surrender of the Karelian isthmus, Viipuri, Lake Ladoga and part of the far northern Petsamo area.

An armistic, it was said, would be followed by further efforts to arrange a peace settlement.

Officials Silent

Official Swedish circles said they could neither deny nor confirm reports that Sweden had submitted peace terms from Joseph Stalin to the Helsinki government.

One theory was that negotiations thus far had proceeded through the Russian minister to Sweden, Madame Alexandra Kollontay, the Finnish minister here, Eljas Erkko, who is former Finnish foreign minister, and the Swedish foreign office.

Doubt was expressed in some informed circles, however, whether any mediation bid from a Scandinavian country had a reasonable chance of success.

These sources believed the Kremlin to have become embittered over admitted Scandinavian sympathies for Finland to such a point that a mediator's role would be difficult.

The Finnish attitude toward negotiations was regarded as questionable, depending on the Finns' opinion of their chances of continuing their defense.

It was pointed out that the Finns have expressed a consistent willingness to negotiate provided they can do so with honor and full recognization of their national integrity.

Finn Leader Present

Significance also was seen in reports that Dr. Juho Paasikivi, Finnish diplomat, is in Stockholm. He headed the Finnish delegation in unsuccessful pre-war negotiations at Moscow on Russian territorial demands which Finland found a threat to her independence.

CHURCH LEADER'S SUCCESSOR ELEVATED

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, March 7 — In a ceremony replete with solemn symbolism, the Roman Catholic church rewarded Samuel Alphonsus Stritch's 30 years of devoted service today with one of its highest offices, the largest archbishopric in the United States.

Colorful pageantry hearkening back to the early days of the church accompanied the enthronement of the slight, kindly-faced churchman as fourth archbishop of Chicago, the spiritual overseer of 1,400,000 souls.

Historic Holy Name cathedral, its throne vacant since the death Oct. 2 of George Cardinal Mundelein, first cardinal of the west, was the scene of the brilliant rites, with the Most Rev. Amleto Giovanni Cocognani, apostolic administrator to the United States, the officiating prelate.

Assisting in or witnessing the enthronement were more than 100 archbishops, bishops and monsignori, garbed in deep ecclesiastical purple and rich vestments

More than 35 clergymen were assigned roles in the pontifical mass of which the Most Rev. James A. Griffin, bishop of Springfield, Ill., was celebrant.

CLEVELAND TO VOTE ON CHARTER CHANGE

City Seeks Way To Raise Operating Funds.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, March 7—Officially, Mayor Cleveland is seeking to set his fiscal house in order on a henceforth basis.

The administration of Mayor Harold H. Burton, for the second time, will submit to voters March 27 a municipal charter amendment authorizing council to levy for current operating purposes an annual tax outside the 10-mill limit established by the Ohio constitution.

The amendment limits the total annual operating levy, whether within or without the 10-mill tax, to 8 15 mills in 1941 and thereafter.

For 1940, the amendment specifically provides for $13,000,093, including $2,513,000 earmarked for relief. This represents a tax of 10.7613 mills on Cleveland's assessed valuation of $1,208,124,770. It also includes a tax of .65 mill for police and fire department pensions.

The amendment also authorizes an annual levy up to twotenths of a mill for permanent municipal improvements.

Approval of the measure, requires only a majority, whereas a non-continuing levy must receive the approval of at least 65 per cent of the voters.

Mayor Burton said the amendment follows a plan originally introduced by Cincinnati in providing "continuing authority" for an operating levy.

The Cuyahoga county unit of Labor's Non-Partisan League and the Home Owners Federation jointly oppose the amendment. They declared it an "invasion of Democratic rights" in not terminating council authority.

The Burton administration failed in 1937 to win approval for a similar amendment which would have limited the levy to 9.7 mills.

Four specific levies carried since Burton, now a candidate for the Republican U. S. senatorial nomination, entered the mayor's office: 1936—7 mills and 5.5 mills, 1938—5.7 mills, and 1939 — 7.4 mills.

GIANT LINER

to New York as a self-exile from England to take refuge from the worries of war and to join the company of the other great liners *too valuable to risk in submarine-*infested waters

Jibe Germans

The Queen Elizabeth's maiden trip was—besides a dash to safety from bombings at home—obviously a British reply to German claims of submarine power and to the boasts of the Nazi high command over the Bremen's circuitously safe passage home on which a British submarine commander claimed he had a chance to destroy it—but held his fire.

"Her arrival in New York," the British press association said of the Queen Elizabeth, "gives Adolf Hitler and Admiral Raeder, chief of the Nazi terror campaign, a startling shock in view of the Nazi claim to control of the oceans."

Nothing was said in England of any convoy or armament that might have helped the new queen to her rendezvous with her allied sister ships in New York.

The British believed that she would remain tied up here throughout the war.

When her inside fittings are completed she will be the finest as well as the largest ship afloat. Harbor sources speculated that she would remain in her unfinished stage, to be readily convertible to any special uses as Britain's needs arose They pointed out also that the luxurious interiors of other idling ships here are naturally deteriorating.

The Queen Elizabeth slipped out of her builder's yards at Clydeside on Feb. 26 and lay at anchor off the mouth of the Clyde until last Saturday when the dash to America began

Germans Joke About Ship's Voyage

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, March 7—In jocular mood concerning the voyage to New York of the new British liner Queen Elizabeth, authorized German sources today commented:

"The stealthy trip into a United States harbor does not speak well for British confidence in victory."

They said, "first the British took gold over there, then apparently other treasures, and forgot to bring back certain historical documents. (Apparently a reference to a copy of England's magna charta, deposited in Washington.)

"Now they must pay $1,000 a day docking charges. Why don't they leave the ship in British harbors if they are confident of victory?"

For that matter, they asked, "what is the Queen Elizabeth, anyway? It is not even finished. In fact, it is half a skeleton. Now, the Bremen—that was something!"

(They referred to the German liner Bremen's dash last fall from New York to Murmansk, Russia, and subsequent run home through the British blockade.)

Hitler's Reported Peace Price

By The Associated Press

Hitler is believed to have told U. S. Under-Secretary of State Welles that Germany will fight till she wins.

And a German victory, he is believed to have said, must include recognition by France and Britain of a "German Monroe Doctrine" for central Europe. That would mean German domination over the shaded areas in this map. Germany already dominates the former Czechoslovakia and the Germans share of Poland, and is in a position to squeeze Hungary.

Hitler's reported peace price also includes an Allied promise not to stir up the Balkans and the Baltic region. In Hitler's mind all these areas constitute German "lebensraum"—living space.

Reports Show Increases in Relief Loads in Marion City and County

Increases in both city and county relief loads over the January level were shown in the reports for February issued today by Relief Director Frank S. Burns.

The city's case load for February was 705 and for January 690. The cost for February was $7,759 and for January $8,671.

The county's case load for February was 126 at a cost of $3,395 and for January was 122 at a cost of $3,074.

Both the city and county finished up the month with small cash balances and both are now seeking new funds to carry on relief.

Details of Report

The breakdown of the city's relief report shows that $2,877.10 was spent for direct relief cases totaling 145 family cases (599 persons) and 101 non-family cases. The cost for 368 family cases of work relief (1,460 persons) and 88 non-family cases was $3,001.33. Altogether there were 2,251 persons on relief in the city.

Administrative costs were $1,108.14.

The unencumbered cash balance at the start of February was $4,044 59 and at the close of the month was $674 60. Receipts for February, mostly from the state, amounted to $4,382.

The analysis by Mr. Burns of cases closed and opened during February reveals that twice as many persons lost private employment as found it. There were 26 who lost jobs and 13 who found them. Altogether 83 cases were added and 332 removed. The 332 included 212 who found WPA jobs. Of the 212, however, 164 had been receiving only supplemental relief because of cold weather which held up their WPA work Fourteen persons were added because they lost employment compensation and seven were removed for receiving it. Twenty-eight were added for miscellaneous reasons and 100 were removed under the miscellaneous classification.

The county report shows that there were 111 families (485 persons) and 15 single persons on relief in February. The cost was $1,436.18 for the families and $123 93 for the single persons. In addition 154 transients were given relief at the Salvation Army, the county helping pay the cost. In the previous month there was only one transient, but this was because Salvation Army cases were not included.

Administrative expenses were $251.45. Cost of supporting federal projects was $887. There were 52 cases added and 37 removed. Of those added, 44 had lost WPA jobs, three had lost private employment, one had lost unemployment compensation and four were for miscellaneous reasons. Of those removed from relief, 21, found WPA work, four found private jobs, one went on unemployment compensation and 11 had other reasons.

The unencumbered cash balance at the start of February for the county was $2,218 and at the close of the month $59 82. Receipts amounted to $1,231 43.

WITNESS DESCRIBES SHOOTING IN HOLDUP

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, March 7—An eye witness pointed his finger and thumb as an imaginary pistol and whirled before the jury today in describing how John L. McCormick shot it out with Theodore Nichols, a guard in a holdup.

Louis Catavolos, 18, testified he was in Western Union Telegraph Co headquarters Jan. 8 when McCormick, 21-year-old University of Pittsburgh student, entered

A counter attendant pressed a robbery alarm. Nichols responded.

"Nichols fired first, like this," Catavolos showed intent jurors. "After the first shot Nichols whirled.

"Then the holdup man fired. McCormick stooped and let him have the rest. Then he ran out. Nichols crumpled near a counter.

"I picked up his gun and ran out and fired a shot at McCormick."

The state opened its case yesterday in the first degree murder trial

"As McCormick drew his gun from his pocket, Nichols fired," said Ernest J Pfeiffer, assistant manager of the office. "There was a rapid exchange of shots a fraction of a second apart. Just like a flash it was over".

The jury also heard a description of the duel by Abe Lettofsky, night manager, who testified Nichols and McCormick stood face to face three feet apart during the shooting.

Witnesses testified the two met as the youth was leaving with a haul of $198. McCormick fled after the shooting and was captured by police following a chase through downtown streets

Conviction of first degree murder, unless the jury recommends mercy, makes death in Ohio's electric chair mandatory. Recommendation of mercy means a life sentence

Irish Off for Tourney

St. Mary To Meet Liberty Union at 8:30 in Quarter-Final at Westerville.

Marion St. Mary cagers embark late this afternoon for Westerville to renew their bid for Class B district tournament laurels. The Saints will meet Liberty Union at 8:30 in one of a duo of quarter-final games on tonight's card. Amanda and Summit collide an hour earlier.

Majority of the tournament's high scorers will go into action during tonight's program. Ted Schuler, St. Mary forward, ranks fifth in the individual point-making column and will head the local Irish in their try for a spot in the semi-finals.

All four dribblers who surpass Schuler in tourney scoring are set for action tonight. Norris Ijams, who has racked up 37 tallies, will be the spearhead of the Summit attack. Wayne Hiatt of Amanda has registered 33 points for second place and Richard Raver of Liberty Union has accounted for a total of 31.

Four other quarter-finalists will take the floor tomorrow night, Radnor's five meeting Worthington at 7:30 and Hebron engaging a highly favored Marysville quintet.

The won and lost records of the remaining teams, including the two previous tournament games are: Marion St. Mary, 17-5; Liberty Union, 14-7; Amanda, 19-2; Summit, 14-4; Radnor, 17-8; Worthington, 19-1; Hebron, 18-6; Marysville, 11-10.
